TODAY'S GAMES.

New York at Brooklyn.
Philadelphia at Boston.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
St. Louis at Pittsburgh.

On Labor Day there will be a game at Silver Lake in which the Kents will oppose an Akron team not yet selected. In order that a good game can result, it is probable that an all Akron team will be picked by some good judge of the game and an attempt made to humble the crests of the hitherto invincible Kents for good and all. Mr. Frank Motz is said to be casting his eye thoughtfully about, with a view to selecting material for the team. Its personnel is not yet determined, but that Akron's best will be there is certain.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Kirkwood and Kent will continue their base ball argument Saturday. Although the debate was long since decided for Kent, Kirkwood remains firm in the belief that something might happen to win her a game. The monotony of the result of the struggle between these teams has made every one but Kirkwood sure they can't win. Practice has improved them considerably, however, and a good game is expected Saturday.

BRACKEN MADE GOOD.

Jack Bracken went out onto Cleveland yesterday, a youth whom a greater than local fame, had not yet found. A host of trusty yeomen from the village of Kent were with him to encourage and shout for his triumphs. Slightly in awe of city, the Kent folks went to see Cleveland play Milwaukee and joy of joys see Bracken tried under the eagle eye of the pious-sant McAleer. This was before the game.

When it was over, Bracken was, next to Tom Johnson, the greatest man in Cleveland. By his excellent pitching he had won the Cleveland management. By a terrific hit which was very close to a foul, he won the game, secured a pair of black eyes for Umpire Manassah and caused the worst exhibition of rowdiness seen at League park for a long time.

Bracken's two base hit in the ninth let in the runs which defeated Milwaukee, but the Brewers claimed one and all that it was a foul, and mobbed the umpire, whose ultimate decision was the result of more luck than anything else. Bracken's Kent friends and Cleveland fans carried him away on their shoulders. He pitched good ball, kept his head like a veteran, and had been given good support would have shown Cleveland more of a game than she has been lately accustomed to. He will in all probability get a job.

THE WARREN MEET.

The Warren races began Wednesday to a big audience. The recent rain made the track a little heavy in places, but not sufficiently so to prevent fast races. Mr. E. A. Hershey represented Akron in the judges' stand. Many Akron racing men were there to see the fun and the four races were good, interesting and will boom the meeting today and tomorrow in point of attendance.

Akron blood will be seen in the try for the money during the remainder of the meet. Akron owners and drivers say that their chances are excellent for landing some of the good things and the Akron Driving club will be there in large numbers to see the trials.

CORBETT COMING HOME.

James J. Corbett, the actor-pugilist, left Liverpool for New York on board the Oceanic, Wednesday. It is said that Corbett went to Europe to give boxing exhibitions for King Edward and Emperor William. The project has been given up, or postponed, at least because of the death of Empress Frederick.

McGOVERN DISPLAYS WISDOM. The New York Telegraph thus takes cognizance of Terry McGovern's denial of a report that he made his match with Roberts, the English lightweight, because the latter was to be an easy mark.

He now makes a match with a second rate 125 pounder named Roberts, of England, and complains because the inequality of the match has been referred to. Roberts is the last man at the weight who should have a bout with the champion. His notable achievement was the killing of a novice named Billy Smith. The best line on Roberts is found in his battle with so ordinary a fighter as Will Curley, who was beaten by George Dixon at a time when that fighter was nearing the finish. Curley and Roberts fought twenty rounds, and the latter was a chopping block. Curley is not a hard hitter and Roberts, having the better of the concluding rounds, received the decision. Roberts has no defense and before a hitter like McGovern should go to sleep in the opening round, providing McGovern exerts himself.

In view of the fact that Simms, Broad, "Young Corbett," Sullivan and other good ones in that division are anxious for a bout, and would prove attractive cards, the taking on of Roberts by McGovern cannot be regarded as anything except a desire for an "easy mark."

GIBBS-BUTLER WRESTLING GO. "Young" Gibbs, of Cleveland, who has been prominently identified with boxing, has been converted to the wrestling game. This evening he will meet "Kid" Butler, another ex-boxer, in a catch-as-can match, three out of five. There is a great deal of rivalry between them, and the match is for $50 a side. The contest will take place at Gibbs' gymnasium, No. 71 Bolivar st., Cleveland. Besides this wrestling match, four boxing bouts have been prepared, besides other athletic sports. The first bout will begin at 8 o'clock.

L. A. W.'S ANNUAL MEET.

The League of American Wheelmen which has been not dead, but sleeping, has arranged for its annual meet, to take place in Buffalo, Aug. 14 and 15. Hon. H. S. Earle, president of the L. A. W., has issued a general invitation to members of the League to attend.

FEELING NERVOUS? That's the way it begins. Little things disturb you. You are irritable, restless and worry over trifles. Your heart jumps and palpitates at every noise, you can't concentrate your mind on your work, your memory fails and you do not sleep well at night. In the morning you feel weak and exhausted, with no appetite for food and no ambition for exertion of any kind. Nervous prostration has no terrors for those who use BAR-BEN RESTORATIVE.

It stops the nervousness, soothes the irritation, quickens the pulse, stimulates the digestion, induces refreshing sleep and infuses snap, energy and vigor into the whole system. Bar-Ben is especially efficacious for weak women. Write for free sample. All druggists 50 cents, or mailed on receipt of price.

tend. The races will be ridden at the Stadium, and will doubtless provide the best matches of the year's L. A. W. meet.

THREE CHAMPIONS.

New York, Aug. 8.—A championship long-distance motor-paced competition has been arranged in a series of races for Robert Walther, Harry Elkes, and W. C. Stinson. The series will open with a one hour's race on Aug. 17, and will be followed a week later by a long distance race between the winner of the first race and Stinson, the holder of the hour record. The third race will be between all three, to determine the fastest man at the hour distance. Under the circumstances such a contest is calculated to prove the feature of the season.

WAS KENT—NOW BRACKENVILLE. Kent, O., Aug. 8.—(Sp.)—Kent is base ball crazy tonight. Every man or woman who talks anything but Bracken is fined a dollar. Post's Military band and a great crowd of enthusiasts met "Jack" at the train and gave him a royal reception this evening.

Mr. Daniel Bantz, Ottoville, Ia., says: "Have had asthma and a very bad cough for years, but could get no relief from the doctors and medicines I tried, until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It gave immediate relief, and done me more good than all the other remedies combined."

CLEANING HOUSE.

The air vibrates with slow and measured thrills, And o'er the landscape of a dust cloud sends, For in the back yard gloomily stand A man with face begrimed and blistered hands. Across the rope this pearly carpet hangs, And on it with a club he feebly bangs; His arms are sore, his back is stiff and lame, But often comes this cry across the yard: "Why don't you beat that carpet real hard?"

His fire is roused, but no retort goes back; Instead he hits the thing a fiercer crack And pounds away with grimaces of despair, While still the dust ascends to spoil the air. At last, ere darkness hides his task from view, Again he hears the voice: "I'll make it do! But don't imagine that your work's complete, For there are ten much worse than that to beat."

The carpet from the rope is meekly tugged, And slowly to the parlor it is hurred, And then, though back and arms and hands are sore, The warrior man must tack it to the floor, And sit he groins about his aching back, And off he hits his thumb instead of tack, But there he tucks until the job is done And gets to bed just as the clock strikes one.

And there's a week or more of such distress, Of anguish that no words can ever express; Confusion dire is reigning everywhere, And soap and whitewash odors fill the air. The meals are late and often fall to pieces, And even when in bed there's little ease, For just an hour of comfort can be gleaned Until the house has been completely cleaned.

Why wonder, then, that hobbles growl and frown When everything is thus turned upside down? The wonder is that he goes so far and fast Until the time for cleaning house has passed.

Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Jailer.—The rules of this prison allow a day's recreation every year to prisoners, and it's your turn tomorrow.

Convict.—All right, boss. If you don't mind, I'd like a nice cross country run with somebody.

These Housecleaning Days. The boy knocked at the front door. The bell was out of order. Presently somebody was heard trying to climb over the furniture in the front hall, and a woman's voice asked: "Who is there?"

"Telegraph messenger," loudly replied the boy; "got a message for the man of the house."

The attic window flew open, a cobwebbed head was thrust forth, and a man with a wild, despairing voice yelled out: "Wrap it around a stone and throw it up here!"—Chicago Tribune.

Irritating. The Boer pressed his bayonet against my breast. "Quarter, forsooth!" sneered he. "You who devastate our farms, burn our homes and, as if this were not enough—"

Here his voice rose to a shriek. "To wear those dinky lozenge hats with the latchet under your nose!"

I could see that he was awfully angry, but my British blood was up, and I laughed in his face.—Detroit Journal.

His Doubtful Freedom. "Yaas, massa, ah has ter 'wok jes' lak a slave, she!"

"Like a slave, Rastus? Why, that's wrong. You colored people are all free now."

"Guess not, massa, zakly. Yo' see, some of us poe' niggers is married."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

English Ideas of Lynching. At a recent dinner in London the conversation turned on the subject of lynchings in the United States. It was the general opinion that a rope was the chief end of man in America. Finally the hostess turned to an American, who had taken no part in the conversation, and said: "You, sir, must have often seen these affairs."

"Yes," he replied, "we take a kind of municipal pride in seeing which city can show the greatest number of lynchings yearly."

"Oh, do tell us about a lynching you have seen yourself," broke in half a dozen voices at once.

"The night before I sailed for England," said the American, "I was giving a dinner to a party of intimate friends when a colored waiter spilled a plate of soup over the gown of a lady at an adjoining table. The gown was utterly ruined, and the gentlemen of her party at once seized the waiter, tied a rope around his neck and, at a signal from the injured lady, swung him into the air."

"Horrible!" said the hostess, with a shudder. "And did you actually see this yourself?"

"Well, no," said the American apologetically. "Just at that time I was down stairs killing the chef for putting mustard in the blancmange."—Modern Society.

Kind Heartedness. The glumman shivered but had made a break to pass the ticket seller at the circus entrance, but that gentleman had caught him and rudely thrust him back.

"Poor little devil!" said a seedy looking man in the crowd. "If I had the money, I'd buy him a ticket myself."

The crowd looked sympathetic, but said nothing, while the boy sobbed as if his heart would dissolve.

"I've only got a nickel, little feller," went on the seedy looking one, "and that won't do you no good. Say," he continued, turning suddenly to the crowd, "let's do one good act in our lives. Let's buy him a ticket."

It looked for a minute as if a collection was to be started, but a benevolent looking old gentleman nipped it in the bud by slipping a half dollar into the hand of the boy, who promptly disappeared into the tent.

"I thank you a thousand times for that kind act, sir," said the seedy looking man.

"You seem to take quite an interest in the little fellow," remarked the benevolent one.

"Well," I should think I ought to," answered the seedy looking man proudly. "That's the only son I got!"—Indianapolis Sun.

Getting Independent. Midget.—The ossified man says he'll leave unless the manager comes to terms.

"What's his idea?"

"Says he could make more money letting people sharpen their cutlery on his form."—Brooklyn Eagle.

A Family Exposure. "I never see you lounging in the hammocks, Mr. Subbs."

"No; these gay front porch hammocks are for company and for ornament. The old rope thing the folks let me swing in is around in the back yard."—Detroit Free Press.
